

Dear Internet Porn Industry,

Let's get one thing straight, when I look at porn on the internet I don't like to be surprised. For example, when I click on a link that reads: "hot teens masturbating", I don't expect to see them masturbating a horse, not that I would object, I just don't expect it. (What hot teens do with a randy horse is their business. It would certainly spice up the rodeo circuit.)

It seems that the main offenders in the "not what I expected" category would be the fine folks who run sites that feature "MILFS". Apparently these people need a reminder that MILF is an acronym for moms I'd "like" to fuck. The key word being LIKE! I swear if I see one more MILF that looks like Bea Arthur I'm going to go ape-shit! Just because a woman has given birth and is having sex on camera does not automatically make her a MILF. It should be a mom that a majority of men would really want to give a proper humping to, like Kelly Ripa or that Clay Aiken chick from America Idol (she's one sweet piece of ass). There has to be a more strict set of guidelines when posting these sometimes-horrific scenes. The day I see footage of the "where's the beef" lady finding out where the beef is, I'm out for good. I may never look at internet porn again.

Here are a few suggestions for replacement terms if you insist on posting such offensive materials:

- Moms I would fuck only if she had a gun to my head
- Moms I would fuck only if I was blind
- Moms I would fuck only if my twenty year prison term just ended
- Moms I wouldn't fuck on a three day coke and whisky bender with Charlie Sheen's cock
- Moms I would fuck only if world peace was the result (even then I think we're pushing it)
- Moms I would fuck only if it would further my comedy career (call me)
- Moms I would fuck only if my friends never found out
- Moms I would fuck if a nuclear holocaust was coming and she was the only woman around
- Moms I would fuck only because she had really good weed (again, call me)
- Moms I would fuck only because it would give me super-human strength
- Moms I would fuck only if by "fuck" you mean steal her purse and then charge thousands of dollars on her credit cards buying mail order brides from various Asian countries (they love you long time)

The acronyms for some of these may seem a little cumbersome, but I can guarantee that viewer satisfaction will hit an all time high. It's not that I don't ever like surprises, just not when I have my mouse in one hand and my dick in the other. Let's restrict the term MILF for ladies who were born after the advent of the Gregorian calendar. If a woman is having sex on film and her birth date includes the term "B.C.", I think it's safe to say a redefinition of terms would be helpful.

Love,
Bill Scott
